REFLECTING ON
THE 2011 SEASON

Alasdair's Top 10 Music Director Notes, Alasdair Neale

I had so much fun creating a “Top Ten” list of musical highlights last year, that I thought I would try my hand at it again. Here then, in chronological order, are my top 10 moments from the 2011 season:

Alasdair Neale

1 Ravel / String Quartet in F Major (July 25)

Juliana Athayde, Kristin Ahlstrom, Caroline Lee and Amos Yang gave such a beautifully polished account of Ravel's masterpiece that it was easy to overlook the astonishing fact that they had never before played together as a quartet.

2 Debussy and Ravel piano music and their orchestrations (July 29)

Jean-Yves Thibaudet pretty much owns this repertory and was the perfect collaborator to have on hand in this juxtaposition of piano and orchestra playing the same pieces back to back. Jean-Yves also deserves a nod for the wonderful Grieg Piano Concerto on opening night.

3 Gershwin / Rhapsody in Blue (July 31)

Alfredo Rodríguez wowed everyone at the Benefit Concert with his intuitive and stylish Gershwin, and then brought the house down with his encore: a no-holds barred jazz composition of his own. A major talent to look out for in the future.

4 Rachmaninoff / Symphony No. 2 (August 3)

One of my favorite pieces ever, this was a treat for me to do with the orchestra. We got to revel in the gorgeous sound made by our strings as well as savor Principal Clarinet David Neuman's eloquent artistry in the hyper-romantic slow movement.

5 Brahms Concerto in A Minor for Violin and Cello (August 4)

Concertmaster Jeremy Constant and Principal Cello Amos Yang stepped into the spotlight, teaming up to offer a sensitive and persuasive account of Brahms's big-boned concerto for violin and cello.

6 Nico Muhly / Wish You Were Here (August 7)

I'm a big fan of Nico's music, which is starting to make it big-time. Balinese Gamelan and John Adams loom large in this winning 8-minute gem.

7 Prokofiev / Piano Concerto No. 2 (August 7)

Yefim Bronfman made this insanely difficult concerto sound like child's play, but nobody was fooled. We all knew we were witnessing one of the great pianists of our time performing at the top of his game in one of the biggest challenges any pianist can face.

8 Beethoven Symphony No. 6 (August 8)

After 17 years the orchestra finally performed Beethoven's Pastoral Symphony—it was about time! A wonderfully responsive and energetic orchestra joined me for the trip, marked by some especially lovely woodwind playing.

9 Korngold / Violin Concerto (August 12)

Vadim Gluzman hit the proverbial home run two years ago with his Tchaikovsky Concerto, so it was wonderful to welcome him back with the beautiful but less-famous Korngold Concerto. Having performed the piece with him before, I knew we were in for a treat, as Vadim proceeded to dazzle us with his trademark technical brilliance and emotional depth.

10 Mahler / Symphony No. 1 (August 16)

It felt like the last day of summer camp, you know. But I can't think of a better way to finish. The orchestra was in top form in one of the great symphonies of the repertoire, and a large and enthusiastic crowd tuned in to Mahler's astonishing vision. It all conspired to make it a truly unforgettable evening and a fitting high note on which to end the season.

The Sun Valley Summer Symphony feels like a second home for me and my husband, oboist Erik Behr. We have been coming to Sun Valley together for the past four years and always look forward to returning to Idaho every August. From the amazing colleagues, guest artists, and Alasdair Neale's brilliant programming, to the welcoming locals, enthusiastic audiences, and breathtaking surroundings, Sun Valley has it all!

— JULIANA ATHAYDE, SUN VALLEY SUMMER SYMPHONY ASSISTANT CONCERTMASTER

President's Letter

Britt Palmedo

The 2011 Sun Valley Summer Symphony season showcased an exceptionally diverse repertoire of classical music. From the Benefit Concert, featuring the angelic voice of Jackie Evancho, to the romanticism of Rachmaninoff, to the pastoral scene of Beethoven's 6th Symphony and of course to the lighter side with Pops and Quartetto Gelato—there was something for everyone! Thank you to Alasdair Neale, our wonderful music director, for enriching our lives with last summer's eclectic programming.

A number of outstanding guest artists graced the stage in 2011. It will be a long time before we forget the powerful piano playing of Yefim Bronfman and the singing style of violinist Vadim Gluzman, but what truly made each concert a success was the collective musical talent of each orchestra musician. The 2011 orchestra was composed of 114 musicians from across the United States and beyond. Some were here for the first time and others have come to Sun Valley for as many as 21 seasons. We thank them for playing in the Sun Valley Summer Symphony and for sharing their talent with all of us.

Outstanding music and world-class musicians are tangible ingredients that make a season successful. A third but less tangible ingredient is the remarkable audience and the community spirit that surrounds the concerts. One of the unique things about the Sun Valley Summer Symphony is that you can enjoy the concert experience in your own way. One night you might choose to sit inside the gorgeous Sun Valley Pavilion and the next night you might want to join friends for a picnic on the lawn. What makes the Sun Valley Summer Symphony unique is that you have the opportunity to listen to world-class music, surrounded by spectacular mountain scenery, and you can share that experience with others. This is the community spirit that pervades the concert season.

That community spirit was showcased last summer by The Elaine Wynn Family Foundation and an anonymous donor who underwrote the 2011 Symphony season's screen and video production. Thank you for your vision and support—the screen has transformed the lawn experience.

I would like to extend a warm and heartfelt thank you to all of the Symphony's generous and loyal donors. Your commitment and generosity are essential to the success of the Sun Valley Summer Symphony! And, on behalf of the Board, thank you to the Holding Family for the stunning Sun Valley Pavilion—a gift to the entire community.

Many thanks to all of the housing hosts, the volunteers and the ushers for contributing their time and support and for making this a community effort. Thank you to the production and video crew who made sure the music and video came out loud and clear. Thank you to the staff for the many hours they worked throughout the year to make the concert season run smoothly and to our Executive Director, Jennifer Teisinger, for her leadership and guidance.

I look forward to seeing all of you at the concerts next summer!

Golden Note Award

Andrea and Ed Van Every are the 2011 recipients of the Golden Note Award which honors friends and volunteers of the Sun Valley Summer Symphony. Ed and Andrea managed the Symphony Tent on the lawn for every orchestra concert last summer and volunteered their time in the Symphony Store for 10 years prior. They have been housing hosts since 1993, and Andrea also served on the Sun Valley Summer Symphony staff from 1993–2005. Thank you Andrea and Ed for your enthusiasm and commitment to the Sun Valley Summer Symphony!

My first summer with the Sun Valley Summer Symphony

The thing that jumped out at me at the first rehearsal was the amazing attitude of the Sun Valley Summer Symphony musicians and their leadership; everyone was so supportive and relaxed, but at the same time we were 112% committed in executing the music at the highest level. Performing in a time crunch can be very stressful, and it can close off some of the artistic flow. So, it was such a gift to have the breathing room to play from the ground up. I've never learned so many programs in such a short amount of time while being happy and comfortable with my work. By the way, this orchestra sounds fantastic, so the ethos of the Sun Valley Summer Symphony works!

My host family in Hailey was very welcoming. I had the best morning runs out on Quigley Road beyond Quigley pond, but as soon as I was up to speed with the altitude it was almost time to leave.

The most exciting adventure I had, hands down, was white water kayaking on the Salmon River. It was a different kind of adrenaline rush for me, one that made orchestra auditions, for a moment, not seem like near-death experiences! Also the drive up to Stanley with a stop at the local bakery was a real highlight. There's an almond pastry that I'm really hoping is there the next time I get to that part of the world....

2,248 MUSIC LESSONS TAUGHT IN 2011

It's about the kids!

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

The music plays year-round at the Sun Valley Summer Symphony School of Music. 207 students study voice, violin, viola, cello and piano from September through May at the School of Music in Hailey. To prepare students for the School of Music Core program which meets every Saturday, there are now 8 ensembles for Middle and High School students that are taught by School of Music faculty in collaboration with Blaine Schools and the Community School:

- B-Tones – high school boys
- Enchanté – high school girls
- Wood River Valley Boys – middle school boys
- Melodia – middle school girls
- One Voice – grades 3-5
- Elementary String – grades 4-5
- Middle School Honor Orchestra
- High School Chamber Orchestra

SUMMER MUSIC WORKSHOPS

227 students from 12 states attended the Summer Music Workshops held from August 1-5 at the Community School. Music students spent each day in private lessons, ensemble coaching, and music enrichment classes in preparation for culminating performances at the end of the week. Of the Workshops' 37 instructors, 14 are either Sun Valley Summer Symphony musicians or School of Music faculty.

It's about the adults, too!

MUSIC EDUCATION ISN'T JUST FOR KIDS

1,955 people attended Concert Previews, Upbeat With Alasdair Talks, the Edgar M. Bronfman In Focus discussions, and "How Much Less is More"—the first-ever program collaboration between the Center for the Arts, Community Library and the Sun Valley Summer Symphony.

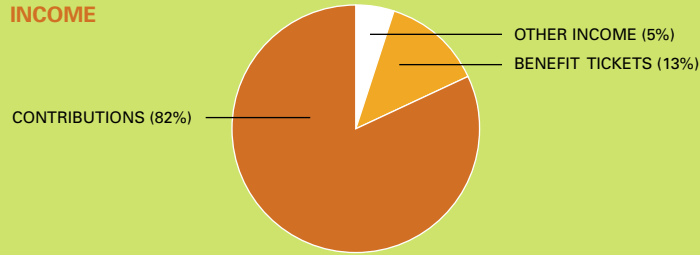

“ I am amazed and impressed with the quality of teachers the SVSS education program is able to provide our students. Not only are the instructors world-class musicians with doctorates, they are genuinely wonderful people. The students respond to them and want to do well.”

— DORINDA RENDAHL, WOODSIDE ELEMENTARY MUSIC TEACHER

It's about the numbers.

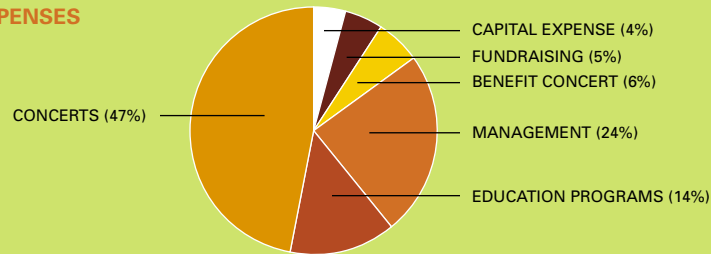

Your generosity and continuous support makes free-admission classical concerts and music education possible in the Wood River Valley. Thank you for making the 27th season a success!
